An ICT user's code of ethics has been drafted and will be promoted via various channels. In addition, a series of talks on computer ethics, internet legal issues and information security to secondary schools will be organized and there are so far more than 50 secondary schools expressed their interest in co-organizing these talks.

Final Call for Registration - Government ICT Procurement Policy Forum

The Government has begun to outsource its ICT projects since 1999. While this policy aims at introducing innovative solutions to the Government via the market, the industry has observed a number of arrangements of the procurement policy which may hinder the policy goal to be achieved:

- Unlimited liability regime
- Selection criteria for contractors
- Assessment on project objectives for staged payments
- Preparation time for technical demonstration
- Remuneration package for out-of-scope tasks

To have an in-depth dialogue between the industry and the Government, you are cordially invited to share your views in the coming forum:
